SMASHED BY THE SEA

The Story of a Shipwreck In the English Channel.

FIERCE FURY OF THE STORM.

Wind and Wave Battered the Ship Till Only a Shattered Hulk Remained—A Battle Against the Elements That Ended In Defeat.

We had weathered the western islands and entered latitudes where the prudent mariner shortens sail and keeps a wary eye on the barometer.
For the seafarer may talk lightly of mountainous seas off the Horn, but not of a winter gale in the mouth of the English channel when the coast is strewn with wreckage from the Lizard to Beachy and his imagination, accustomed to vast expanses of lonely sea, pictures all sorts of craft jostling one another in dangerous proximity.

A favoring gale from the northwest, not more vicious than the ordinary north Atlantic gale, had kept the ship lively all day and set all hands figuring on pay day. It was not until the afternoon watch that the weather outlook became really threatening. Mountainous walls of green water swung out of the darkness and buffeted her aside as they passed. Fierce squalls smote her in rapid succession, enveloping her in a smother of spray, heeling her until the yardsarms dipped in the crests of the waves.

At eight bells the wind lulled and hailed a point to the westward, the hurled itself against the ship with accumulated fury. There was a sudden confusion of flying cordage, overwhelming seas hammering upon the decks and the cannonade of canvas stripped from the spars and blown like thistledown to leeward.

Relieved of her top hamper, she staggered erect, dripping like a half tide rock and shaken with the shock of the seas pounding her sides. Halfway on the upward oscillation she poised, checked by the renewed onslaught of the gale as if by the impact of a material obstacle. Rags of canvas streamed from her empty yards. Every wire of her rigging twanged and stretched under the strain.

The deck round the mainmast heaved and started with white fissures running along its well oiled planks.
The heavy steel spar dived on one side, then buckled and crashed overboard in a tangle of wreckage.

The ends of severed wire whipped the air, and twisted shrouds sawed to and fro along the ruined bulwarks and struck showers of sparks from the tortured iron work. The hatch covers were stripped from their coverings, boats smashed to firewood and all the intricate superstructure of the vessel swept and broken. Shouted orders were blown back, inaudible to the men covering under the break of the poop, and useless if audible.

What seamanship could contrive was done. Men worked for their lives, finding a foothold on the sea swept deck, hacking the jagged ends of iron wire.
But the day of cutting wreckage adrift is gone with wooden spars and hem-pen cordage. Although the plates gaped and rivets started, the heavy spar held fast alongside, pounding against the iron hull as she rolled in that trough of the sea.

A couple of spare spars were lashed together and launched with infinite danger through the gap in the broken bulwarks. But no improvised sea anchor could hold her to windward amid the tumult of such a sea. She was no longer a ship, but a ruined fabric, crushed and sagging to leeward under the weight of the elements.

Morning brought an abatement of the fury of the gale. Standing on the poop, surveying her shattered hulk, her skipper turned quietly to his mate and asked, "Is the port lifeboat seaworthy?"

"Carpenter reports that it is, sir," replied his subordinate.

The skipper stood for awhile in silence, noting the sluggish life of the deck under his feet. "Suppose we've got to leave her," he said. "What d'ye think?"

It is the sole occasion where the master mariner will deign to consult and be advised by his inferior officer.
"She can't float much longer, sir," replied the other sympathetically. It might be that in his time he, too, would require to seek similar advice.
"Ah," said the skipper heavily, "and I saw her launched." He crossed over to the teak life rail and laid his hand on it, fondling it affectionately. "All right, mister," he said at last. "We're right in the track of shipping. Pass the word along to put a bag of biscuit aboard and fill the breakers with water."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Short and to the Point.

One of the shortest speeches recorded in forensic annals is that of Taunton, afterward a judge. Charles Phillips, an Irish orator, had made a flowery speech in an assault case.

Taunton, who was for the defendant, said in reply, "My friend's eloquent complaint amounts, in plain English, to this—that his client has received a good, sound horsewhipping—and my defense is as short—that he richly deserved it."

The Boy and the Bear.

"Have you ever heard the story of Algy and the bear?" asked a boy of his father. "It's very short. Algy met a bear; the bear was bulgy; the bulge was Algy."—London News.

I do not know of any way so sure of making others happy as being so oneself.—Sir Arthur Helps.

ADMISSION - TEN CENTS

THE QUICKEST WAY.

How One Might Travel 190 Miles in About Ten Minutes.

It is estimated that if all mechanical difficulties could be removed and sufficient power developed the minimum time in which passengers could be transported over the eighty-five miles from New York to Philadelphia would be six minutes and forty-four seconds and for the 190 miles from Boston to New York ten minutes and four seconds. A correspondent of the Scientific American who has been working on the problem says that the train would have to be run in a vacuum to prevent their being heated to incan-descence by the resistance of the air.
They would have to be held in suspension in the vacuum tube through which they traveled, for the slightest contact with the sides of the tube would result in enormous friction.
The cars might be held in suspension by the propulsion of opposing magnets on the cars and on the tubes respectively. When this isolated they could be propelled only by the power of magnetism. The energy consumed in propelling the cars would be comparatively low.

To avoid shock or jar the trains would travel faster and faster until one-half of the distance should be covered and then slow down until the destination should be reached. When the rate of acceleration is just such as can be borne with comfort the limit is attained. The effect on the passengers would be a continuous pressure against the back of the seat, as when a car is started suddenly, for the first half of the journey, and then in order to prevent them from pitching out of their seats the chairs would be turned in the opposite direction for the rest of the journey, during which the same sensation would be felt.

At the speed named the passengers would be traveling for each half of the distance one-third as fast as they could fall through the same space under the attraction of gravity.

The Two Angels.

The following allegory is told among the Turks:

Every man has two guardian angels, one on his right shoulder and one on his left. In doing good the angel on the right shoulder notes it down and sets a seal upon it, for what is done is done forever. When evil is committed the angel on the left shoulder writes it down, but he waits until midnight before he seals it. If by that time the man bows his head and says, "Gracious Allah, I have sinned; forgive me!" the angel blots out the fault, but if not he seals it at midnight, and then the angel on the right shoulder weeps.

A Canine Feast.

A blind man, guided by a large and athletic dog, went down the street the other day. Just as they turned a corner the blind man's dog saw a dog it knew and darted forward in a way that threw the sightless mendicant to the ground. He was speedily assisted to his feet, however, by a wagtail passerby, who remarked that he had heard some remarkable stories of the feats performed by dogs, but this was the first time he had ever known one to pull down the blind.

HIS THOROUGHbred.

A Deal the Horseman Put Through on the Dead Quirt.

A man known roundabout as a lover and possessor of fine horses was lately driving one of his favorite steeds along a suburban road when he came upon another horse lover, almost as well known, who was driving in the opposite direction. Seemingly pleased to meet each other, both drew up alongside.

"I heard only yesterday that you'd gone away and brought back a new thoroughbred," greeted the second horseman.

"Yep," gleefully returned the first horseman; "I'm just after leaving her back home while I give this horse a little spin for his liver."

"Think she'll suit?" asked the second man, squinting good humoredly.
"Well, you know my style, old man.
She can step along in the best class, and she's got a pedigree eclipsing any around here."

"How long have you had her?"
"Just four days," answered the first horseman in the same gleeful tone, "but I've had my eyes on her for some time back."

"Carried this deal through a little on the quiet, didn't you?"

"Yep," laughed the first man, with a head shake of satisfaction.

"Is she a record breaker?"

"Sure thing; wouldn't have any other. Wait till you fellows get a glimpse of her, and if you don't agree that I've still got my eyes for winners I'll eat the tail off that horse there."

Suddenly the second horseman leaned over toward his friend and thrust out his hand in palpable earnestness.
"Accept my congratulations," said he, "and also give 'em to your—your thoroughbred!"

"I will!" heartily returned the other man, gripping the proffered fist. "Be sure to come in and see us," he added as his friend prepared to drive on.
"I know she'll be tickled to meet a friend of mine; she isn't too high bitched for that, old man. That's her winning quality. She's a wife fit for a horse judge!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Retort Courteous.

"Camp Meeting" John Allen was a famous Methodist preacher and revivalist of the old days down in Maine, and, like most successful pulpit orators, his sense of humor was equal to his gift of speech.

It is recalled by the Boston Journal that on one occasion the old gentleman's wife was getting into a carriage, and he neglected to assist her.

"You are not as gallant, John, as when you were a boy!" she exclaimed in gentle rebuke.

"No," was his ready response, "and you are not as buoyant as when you were a girl!"

THE GOOD OLD TIMES

When Hunting Was Good and Gray Mares Were Wonders.

REAL SPORT IN THOSE DAYS.

Old Jimmy Chambers Tells About One Haul He Made When He Got More Than He Expected—The Willing Old Horse That Cracked Her Skin.

"Tall about yer huntin' trips," said ole Jimmy Chambers. "Why, there ain't no huntin' nowadays; no, not none
'tall—leastwise none worth mentionin'.
"It was different when I wuz a young feller. Then wuz huntin' days!
When ye went out to hunt ye got sumthin', I tell ye. An' most always ye got a dum sight more 'n ye expected. I remember onct down in ole Pennsylvania when I had a hunt as wuz a hunt. I had er ole muzzle loader ride that could shoot some, I tell ye. An' I wuz no slouch at shootin' in them days myself. I could shoot about as well as ther next feller. Well, I went down to ther river lookin' fer er deer. I seen one standin' right in front of er big tree. I pulled up ther ole muzzle loader an' let her go. Jest as I fired a big flash jumped out of ther water, an' my shot went plum through him. I seen by ther way he fell I'd plugged er hole in him. The deer jest dropped where he stood—never stirred, jest fell stone dead.

"I rushed out into ther river an' grabbed my fish fore it could float away. With ther fish under my arm I started fer ther deer. An' what d'ye suppose? S' help me, jest back of where ther deer stood ther bullet had knocked er hole in that tree as big as yer fist, an' out of that hole er regular stream of honey wuz down!
That good honey wuz goin' to waste dum fast, an' I hadn't nary er thing to stop it. Jest then er rabbit jumped out of er hole I hadn't noticed, an'
I grabbed him by ther hind legs jest as he wuz leavin'. I wuz goin' to stuff him in ther hole when er flock of quail dew up on ther other side of ther tree. They wuz goin' straightaway, an' ther wuz more 'n 10,000 of 'em.
Ther ole muzzle loader wuzn't loaded, an' ther quail wuz gettin' away fast.
I wanted some of 'em bad, so I jest let go that ole rabbit right in ther middle of 'em, an' ther way he kicked an' clawed as he wuz goin' through ther air wuz a caution. He landed right on top of ther whole bunch, an' when I got over ther seventeen of 'em wuz dead on ther ground—yes, of 'em seventeen of 'em! An' ther air, ther shock had killed ther rabbit too.
He wuz all smashed up. I stuck his head in ther hole to stop ther honey till I could go home fer sum barrels.

"I hitched up ther ole gray mare to ther sled an' went back. I chopped that ther ole tree down, an' ther wuz honey enough to fill all my barrels.
Well, I slung ther deer an' ther fish an' ther rabbit an' ther quail on ther sled an' started home. It wuz some load for ther ole mare, an' I walked at her head, kinder coaxin' her along. I wuzn't payin' any attention to ther load, an', by gum, when we got up to ther house ther wuz that ther load way back in ther middle of ther river.
Of course I knowed what wuz ther matter. That ole groundhog harness had got wet an' jest stretched. I wuz kind of hungry, so I jest throwed ther harness over a stump an' went into dinner. When I cum out again ther sun had dried ther harness an' ther load wuz just pullin' up to ther stump.
That wuz some hunt. Yer don't get nothin' like that nowadays, I tell ye.
Then wuz good old days!

"An', speakin' of ther ole gray mare, she was ther willin'est mare that ever wuz. She'd pull anything yer hitched her to. I tried her, an' she pulled everything. One day I sez to myself, 'By gum, I'll give yer er load yer can't pull,' an' I hitched her to er stone boat loaded with all ther boulders in ther county. She got right down an' pulled an' pulled an' pulled, but ther load didn't budge. I heared er little crack, but for er minute I didn't suspicion anything, an' before I noticed that ther skin on her face had cracked it wuz too late. I yelled at her to stop, but she wuz so dum mad she kept right on pullin', an' s'help me, before I could stop her she'd pulled herself clean out of her skin! I didn't want to lose that ther mare, an' I got busy an' did er little skin graftin' fer myself. I had some fresh sheep pelts, an' I sewed them on as fast as I could sew. Well, sir, ther pelts took root fine. They grewed on that ther ole mare jest like they'd always been there, an' ther next season I sheared jest 375 pounds of wool off'n her. She wuz er good ole mare, I tell ye, an' every year I got 375 pounds of wool so long as she lived. Yes, sir; it was always jest 375 pounds. Yer don't have no such horses nowadays, I tell ye."—Outer's Book.

The Pimpernel.

The common pimpernel, "poor man's weather glass," has the disadvantage of being a native plant and has been almost completely expelled from our flower gardens in favor of exotics which are rarer, but lack much of being as pretty. The pimpernel is a charming little flower which opens about 8 in the morning and closes late in the afternoon, but has the remarkable peculiarity of indicating a coming shower by shutting up its petals.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE

Sonoma, March 19, 1910.

H. H. GRANICE, Editor.

The Sore Heads and their Candidate for Governor.

An appeal has gone forth from the Lincoln-Roosevelt League to the interior press for its support in favor of Mr. Hiram Johnson, its candidate for Governor in the forthcoming primary election.

Personally, we have no objection to Mr. Johnson, who is one of the leading members of the San Francisco Bar, but politically we have decided objections to his candidacy, backed up as it is by a convention of political soreheads and disappointed office-seekers, who long since have outlived their usefulness and in their political senility do not appear to realize that they are dead ones in so far as the Republican party in this State is concerned.

Chagrined and sour-balled because they have been placed upon the shelf by the party that has honored them in the past to make way for better and more able men, they would now rule or ruin. These ungrateful insurgents bear the same ear marks of the "Dolly Vardens" of over a decade ago, who tried to elect Morris M. Estee of Napa Governor of California and made such a dismal failure of the whole business.

Johnson, like Estee, has accepted the support of an insurgent band of Republicans, and by doing so has likewise "burned his bridges behind him," and having cut off all retreat, can never be the Governor of California. He has been taken out of the private walks of life and interjected in this campaign by a band of political conspirators, who, failing to rule, would disrupt the Republican party, and like his prototype, Morris M. Estee, is doomed to inevitable defeat should his name ever be presented to the voters as the Republican nominee for Governor of California.

From Dryden et al. to Theodore Roosevelt

Behold the conquering Roosevelt comes!
Sound the trumpets, beat the drums;
Tanned from the tropic chase
He shows his smiling face.
Now give the cameras a chance—he comes; he comes!
Teddy ever fair and fond of young Bacchus' blessing may be treasure,
But it is not Teddy's pleasure.
A thirst for lion hunts, well rather,
Of other things he does not bother.
See the cobras rise!
See the sable-toothed tigers eyes!
With thoughts of his victories the Colonel grows vain, Fights all his battles o'er again.
Compared to these how poor ambition's pride.
A pity, thinketh Roosevelt, how McKinley died!
Let hunter with the martyr share the crown—
He raised a mortal to the sky;
I brought a lion down.

The election will be held in the public school house on the first Friday in April, to-wit April 1st.

A vacation of three weeks was also decided upon, the school to close Friday, March 28th, and reopen on Monday April 11th.

The Trustees then adjourned.

THE FORTHCOMING CITY ELECTION.

Nominations for the Offices

Closed Last Saturday Night—

Those Who are in the Running.

Nominations for the various offices to be filled at the municipal election to be held here on Monday, April 11th, closed last Saturday night and the line-up of candidates will be as follows:

For City Trustees—Geo. Breitenbach, Chas. Dal Poggetto, John D. Wagon, Ralph Perkins, M. J. Cummings, Fred Bulotti and E. Guyot.

For City Clerk—Dr. H. W. Gottenberg and L. H. Green.

For City Marshal—Jas. H. Albertson, M. Topete, A. Gotzen.

For Treasurer—Jesse Burris. All the candidates are well-known citizens and have been put forward by their supporters on account of their fitness for the office for which they have been named.

The Marshalship contest bids fair to be a red-hot one between M. Topete and the incumbent Jim Albertson, else there are a whole lot of liars in this town. Topete's supporters are claiming all kinds of votes, which have been promised to their candidate, while the Albertson adherents declare they have a dead cinch on the office.

The contest for Trustee will no doubt be a hot one, in which the ladies, it is rumored, will play an important part in endeavoring to elect the men of their choice.

So far no particular issue has developed to precipitate a fierce local contest, but it will be forthcoming just the same say the wise ones.

CONDUCTOR LAUX'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Falls From Box-Car but is Not Seriously Hurt.

Jack Laux, Conductor of the freight on the Sonoma Branch of the Northwestern Pacific railroad, slipped from the top of a box-car at Schellville on Friday of last week, and had a narrow escape from death.

Fortunately he fell clear of the track and escaped with an injured jaw and numerous abrasions about the body, but no bones were broken as at first reported. Conductor Jack Laux was born and raised in Sonoma and has many friends here. He is also one of the most popular railway employees on the road.

Fine Rain.

The showers which fell in this valley Sunday and Monday were very beneficial to growing crops and pasturage. Jos. Keechler, superintendent of the Jones ranch, reports that the precipitation was worth thousands of dollars to the big acreage of hay and grain on that ranch. The rain was followed by clear skies and under the influence of the genial rays of the sun one could almost see the grain grow. Farming and other prospects never looked so bright in the Sonoma Valley than at the present writing.

Falls Off Wagon and Dislocates Shoulder.

P. Cronin, employed on the Curtin ranch in the western suburbs of town, fell off the high seat of a farm wagon on Friday of last week and suffered a dislocation of the left shoulder. The man's injury, which was quite painful, was treated by Dr. Leix.

Galli's throat with a razor in the Roma Hotel in this place several weeks ago, and who has been confined in the county jail ever since the attempted murder, was held for trial before the Superior Court last Thursday by Justice Atchinson of Santa Rosa. His bail was fixed at $1000. Galli, the would-be victim of the razor wielder, has recovered from his wounds.

Lutgens'

YOUNG GIRL

TAKES POISON. AND DIES.

Swallows Half Ounce of Carbolic Acid With Suicidal Intent and Dies in Agony.

Agnes Kennedy, a well-developed girl of thirteen years, made despondent by the death of her mother about two months ago, committed suicide last Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by swallowing half the contents of an ounce vial of carbolic acid.

Agnes Kennedy was sent here by her father two weeks ago to attend the public school, after he had made arrangements with Mrs. M. Pohley to room and board the girl. She appeared to be in a despondent mood and continually brooded over the death of her mother which occurred in San Francisco last January.

On Wednesday she attended the grammar school as usual and just before 11 o'clock she was excused and immediately returned to the Pohley home. Upon arriving there she hunted up the medicine chest, having first possessed herself of the key, and unlocking it secured the vial of carbolic acid and drained the bottle to the dregs.

After swallowing the deadly corrosive she informed Mrs. Pohley of her desperate deed and immediately after went into convulsions. Dr. Leix was telephoned for and together with his wife, Dr. Francis Leix, worked over the unconscious girl all night Wednesday until after 1 o'clock Friday morning in an endeavor to save the rash girl's life, but the task was in vain. At times she regained consciousness only to be attacked with sinking spells that required the most heroic treatment to keep the vital spark alive. But the deadly corrosive had done its cruel work only too well, and after suffering in terrible agony for nearly forty hours the tortured racked frame of the hapless child lay still and quiet in the embrace of death.

The remains have been shipped to relatives in San Francisco for interment in that city.

New Ads this Week.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement of the Sonoma House, the pioneer hotel of this city. It has changed hands, Messrs. Zari & Sorini being the new proprietors. Under the new management the hotel will no doubt become a popular resort for both transients and regular boarders.

The advertisement of the Toscano Hotel appears elsewhere in these columns. S. Ciucci, the popular caterer, is still on deck and is prepared for a big rush of summer people the coming season and can accommodate guests without number and make their stay in the valley a pleasant one. He will run his bus to and from all trains and to the springs as usual.

SPARED THE CHIEF.

Jackson Admired the Bravery of the Famous Indian.

Andrew Jackson was magnanimous in his treatment of Weatherford, the famous Creek chieftain, when that warrior surrendered. Weatherford had done all in his power to prevent the horrible massacre at Fort Mims, but most of the frontiersmen were bitter against him, and Jackson himself had sworn to put him to death if he were taken.

One day after the power of his people had been utterly broken, Weatherford came riding into Jackson's camp on his famous gray horse and stopped in front of the general's tent.

"How dare you ride up to my tent after having murdered the women and children at Fort Mims?" demanded Jackson in astonishment.

The chief denied the truth of the charge, but said he: "You may kill me if you will. I come to get aid for the women and little children who are starving in the woods. If I could fight you any longer I would do so, but my warriors are all dead. Send for the women and little children. They never did you any harm. But kill me if the white people want it done."

The troops, crowding about, began to cry menacingly: "Kill him! Kill him!"

"Silence!" ordered Old Hickory sternly. "Any one who would kill as brave a man as this would rob the dead."

The general treated the chief kindly and even gave him permission if he desired to depart and continue the war. The chief afterward settled on a plantation, where he resided for many years, honored alike by white men and red.—Chicago Tribune.

SOLVING A PROBLEM.

The Green Country Brakeman Who Introduced the "Saw By."

Many years ago a green country boy applied to the superintendent of a western railway for work and, somewhat against the superintendent's wish, on account of the danger to life and limb attendant upon such occupation, was given a place as brakeman of a freight train.

On one of his first trips it happened that his train met another freight train at a station where the sidetrack was not long enough to accommodate either of them. The conductors were debating which train should back up to a point where they could pass when the new hand ventured to suggest that neither should back; that they could pass each other by means of the short sidetrack if the thing was managed right.

The idea excited a good deal of laughter on the part of the old trainmen, but the boy stood his ground.

"Well, how would you go about it?" asked one of the conductors, confident that the lad would soon find himself against a stump.

The boy took up a stick and traced in the sand a diagram to illustrate his plan.

"Good gracious!" said the conductor. "I believe that will do it!"

And it did do it. Today every trainman in America probably knows how to "saw by" two long trains on a short sidetrack, but it is not so generally known that the thing was never done until an inexperienced country boy who became the manager of a great railway line worked out the problem for himself.

The White Shark.

The shark of sharks, the real "man eater" and the one most dreaded, is the white shark. This variety reaches a length of thirty-five feet and a weight of 2,000 pounds. Its head is long and flat, and the snout far overhangs the mouth. Its six rows of teeth are sharp as lancets and notched like saws. Its mouth is very large, so that one has been known to cut a man's body completely in two at a single snap of its cruel jaws and another to swallow one at a gulp. Near Calcutta one of these sharks was seen to swallow a bullock's head, horns and all. From the stomach of another a bull's hide was taken entire, and the sailor who made the discovery insisted that the bull had been swallowed whole and all except the hide had been digested. From the stomach of another was taken a lady's workbox filled with the usual contents, scissors and all. It is commonly the white shark which follows the vessel at sea day after day and week after week.

FLIGHT OF BIRDS.

Rapid Wing Movement Does Not Always Imply Speed.

Birds have different modes of flight, just as men have different gaits in walking or running. Rapid wing movement does not always imply speed in flight any more than rapid leg movement implies speed in walking or running. With us it is the length of the stride that tells ultimately. What, apart from wing movement, tells in the bird's flight is not known.

Speaking broadly, long winged birds are strong and swift fliers; short winged birds are feeble in flight. When we consider that a cumbrous, slow moving bird like the heron moves its wings twice per second when in flight it is evident that many birds have a very rapid wing movement.

Most small birds have this rapid wing movement with feeble powers of flight. The common wren and the dipper, for instance, have a flight like that of a young bird.

Many of our smaller migrants seem to fly from bush to bush or from tree to tree. Members of the thrush family are low fliers, the blackbird in particular, with its hasty, hurried flight, often just avoiding fences and no more. Wagtails have a beautiful undulating flight with little apparent use of their wings. They look like greyhounds bounding through the air.

Nearly all birds sail or float occasionally without the slightest movement of their wings. Even a large bird like a pheasant will glide in this way for more than two hundred yards.

Grouse have a rapid wing motion without any great speed, but when they sail, coming down with the wind, as they prefer to do, they go very fast. Before alighting they flap their wings several times very rapidly, like the clapping of hands. Most birds after gliding do this. Does it correspond to putting on the brakes or reversing the engine in the case of mechanical locomotion? With little apparent use of its wings the wood pigeon flies very strongly and rapidly. It never seems to "bring up" much before alighting, but crashes into a tree at full speed. When it rises its wings crack like pistol shots.

Ducks are strong on the wing and often fly in single file. Geese will fly in V or arrowhead shape, generally at a considerable height. So do many gulls and other sea birds, in a steady, measured fashion, their calls occasionally sounding like "Left, right, left, right."

Keetrels have a beautiful, clean cut, clipping motion of their wings and look like yachts sailing through the air, while their hovering in the air is one of the mysteries of bird life.

Peewees, which are so graceful in their motions on the ground, look like enormous bats when in flight. Swallows and in a very marked degree swifts have rapid wing movement with great speed and extraordinary power of flight.—Scotsman.

One Cold Saved.

Logic is logic, whether it touches the affairs of nations or a cold in the head. The conviction, says London Tit-Bits, was forced upon a Liverpool woman whose coachman, although he had been ill for several days, appeared one morning with his hair closely cropped.

"Why, Dennis," said the mistress, "whatever possessed you to have your hair cut while you had such a bad cold?"

"Well, mum," replied the unabashed Dennis, "I do be takin' notice this long while that whiniver I have me hair cut I take a bad cold, so I thought to meself that now, while I had the cold on to me, it would be the time of all others to go and get me hair cuttin' done, for by that course I would save meself just one cold. Do you see the power of me reasonin', mum?"

Littlest Father.

The woman who came to clean up was telling how she left her boy to take care of the baby. The boy was two and one-half years old. The baby was six months.

"That's the youngest little father I ever heard of," said the flat dweller. "Locked in to burn in case of fire! Some day when you are cleaning up for me I want to go over and see that little father, who ought to be in the cradle himself, taking care of the six-month-old baby. I want to just sit there and look on awhile. Poor little fellow!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

What Accountancy Means.

Accountancy is not and never can be a matter of abstract knowledge to be transferred by means of lectures, but is the art of knowing how to apply that knowledge to the requirements of business under very varying conditions. It is essentially something that cannot be taught in lectures or classes, but can only be acquired as a result of careful individual study and a reasonable amount of actual practice.—Bookkeeping.

After the Honeymoon.

"Pa, what's the difference between idealism and realism?" "Idealism, my son, is the contemplation of marriage; realism is being married."—Boston Transcript.
